

WEEK BEGINNING:

English

This week, Year 6 have been finishing writing their Survival Guide for how to survive the horror that is Camp Green Lake. Some of the classes have moved forward to looking at a story – which tells an alternate tale of Stanley Yelnats' mother and father whilst he is at camp. The level of the writing has been fantastic and the children really love this topic and book!

Maths

We have continued with practice papers as well as identifying areas with each individual – working closely with them to make sure they understand each and every topic that they should. Children are really working hard to use these practice papers as a chance to show how amazing they are at Maths!

Topic

We continue to explore states and cities across America in our road trip. There has been lots of creative work happening from each class and they really love the chance to explore and learn about places they may have previously never heard of.

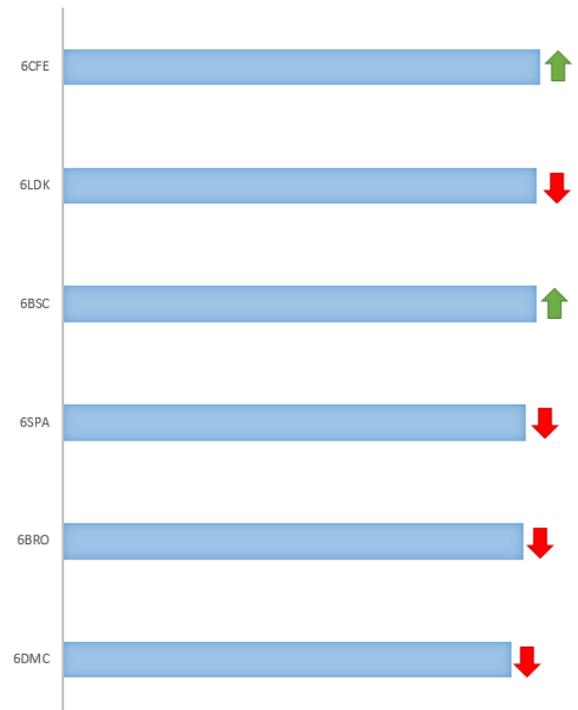

Year 6 Mock week

As you have previously read – next week is Mock week for Year 6, in preparation for their SATs after Easter. The children have worked so hard since joining Ipsley and this is a great chance for them to show us what they are capable of doing. We have tried to make these assessments as close to what they would expect the actual SATs to be like, to try to reduce any pressure of anxiousness that the children may have. We are confident that they will do really well!

SATs workshop

So far the parent workshops have gone really well. The parents who attended found it very useful and had fun trying out the activities with their children. The final SATs workshop is Tuesday 21st March for classes BSc and CFe. There are two workshops on the day, one at 3:30pm and another at 4:30.
